Baucum Files for Judge

Candidate offers the right balance of legal, judicial and community experience to make a great Las Vegas Justice Court Judge

LAS VEGAS, NV – Suzan Baucum officially filed to run for Las Vegas Justice Court Judge, Department 13, which is one of the new judgeships created by the State Legislature in 2009. Suzan was the first candidate, and is the only woman, to file for the position.

Baucum is excited to hit the campaign trail, meet voters and earn their support. “I think voters deserve more than just another judge with a law degree. I have the right balance of legal, judicial and community experience to be a great judge. I’m looking forward to talking with voters about my qualifications, listening to their concerns and earning their support.”

She continued, “I was raised here in Las Vegas and it’s where my husband and I are raising our family. I know the problems we face. I’ll be available at all hours to issue search and arrest warrants for law enforcement and prosecutors. I’ll work diligently to run an efficient and fair justice court.”

Baucum is confident she has the best qualifications for the job. “I’ve been a prosecutor, private practice attorney and served as the Executive Director of the Nevada Law Foundation. I currently serve as Judge Pro Tem<sup>1</sup> for the Las Vegas Justice Court. My on the job experience and frequent requests to judge are a strong testament of my judicial strength and ability.”

Suzan Baucum has deep roots here in Southern Nevada. She attended E.W. Griffith Elementary School, Hyde Park Junior High School and Western High School. Suzan has been an active member of her church, works with youth, and has volunteered in our community. Suzan and her husband are proud parents of three children.

She graduated from Macalester College with a degree in political science, and the University of Idaho Law School, where she earned her juris doctorate degree.
